More than anything, rankings show that even as the iPhone changes and the operating system evolves, our habits haven't changed much when it comes to our favorite apps over the past few years. In fact, if you try to guess the most popular iOS apps just by looking at your phone, you may not go too far. As Sarah Perez reports for TechCrunch, Google, Apple, and Facebook dominate the list of the top 10 most downloaded apps. Facebook's main app is first introduced, with Facebook Messenger in second place, Instagram in fourth place and WhatsApp in sixth. Google's YouTube claims third place, and Google Maps is ranked eighth. Apple finds my iPhone comes in seventh place, while iTunes U ranks tenth. Rounding out Microsoft's top 10 Skype is in fifth place, and Twitter is in ninth. Source: Blog.appannie.com for all 10 apps, users in the US lead the download. These apps have shown considerable staying power, and Perez reports that although most apps are more than four years old, they all still have millions of downloads a month. This means that these are the apps that the majority of users install when they get their first iPhone or iPad, and the ones they install when they upgrade to a new device from an older model. Chances are very good that you have one or more of these apps installed on your iPhone or iPad. The list of the top 10 most profitable apps looks very different from the list of most popular apps, but the winners on that list are also a very logical category, even if they may not be as easy to guess. As you might imagine, dating and entertainment apps dominate. Pandora leads, followed by messaging app line, dating app Zoosk, Apple pages, streaming service Spotify, dating app Badoo, Skype, MLB.com in-bat, dating app Grinder, and Game Line. At $9.99, Apple Pages is the only app on this list to generate all its revenue from paid downloads. All other apps work on a freemium model. The pages bed free for all new iOS devices in October 2013, but its historic revenue earned its place on Annie's App list. Perez points out that many of the top apps by download and revenue are also top apps using monthly active - except when it comes to China. In China, where users prefer local apps, none of the 19 apps The Annie App's download and revenue ratings are in the top 50 by monthly active users. When it comes to downloading the most downloaded iOS games, Candy Crush, unsurprisingly, claims the top spot, and follows those popular homemade names Ninja Fruit and Angry Birds. Perez points out that seven of the top 10 games are based on the swipe mechanism, nine of the 10 games are casual, and all 10 are over two years old. Clash of Clans and Candy Crush are just two looks on the most downloaded and high income list, where Clash of Clans comes in first place and Candy Crush in second. While huge companies like Google and Facebook dominate when it comes to filling out the most downloaded apps for iOS, Sarah E. Needlman reports for the Wall Street Journal that a handful of surprisingly small companies are behind some of the most popular games for the iPhone. While several heavyweight video games like Electronic Arts landed a place on the list, Candy Crush of King Digital produced number one in downloads and number two in revenue. Supercell Clash of Clans appears on each list, as Finnish company days and Boom Beach. The common adjective of the game on both lists is that they are free to download and play.
